New Class

One of the new classes being offered here at Commerce Middle School is consumer science. In this class the students are offered both hands on craft activities as well as academic and social challenges.

So far this year, Mrs. McCoy's classes have made small pillows from scratch; once the pillows were finished, they were donated to the local head start. They have studied a unit called "Character Counts" and made posters dealing with positive character traits which they displayed throughout our school. They have also made tie-blankets, and are currently working on a project called

"Adopt a Grandparent" where the students will help find people willing to share time and gifts with the residents of a local nursing home.

In Mrs. Myer's classes, the students have been involved in discussing character counts, making homemade ice-cream in sandwich baggies, making tie-blankets, and are currently working on learning the process of quilting.

Online Grades

The students and their parents/guardians now have the capability to go online and check their current class assignments and grades. They can also view current homework assignments, semester grades, upcoming events, special bulletins and notes for each class. Parents/guardians who wish to access this site must fill out an internet form and return it to the office. Once the office receives
